THE ELLISIAN FIELDS

1950

THE ELLIS SCHOOL
PITTSBURGH, PENNSYLVANIA

"After the verb 'to love', 'to help' is the most beautiful verb in the world!"

Because

Your good advice and sympathetic understanding help us
in all our problems;

Your ability to teach with cleverness and enthusiasm inspires us to do our best;

Your merry laugh and gentle ways make you a lady to the Nth degree;

And most of all because

We want to,

We dedicate this yearbook to you

Lucy L. Soule

FOREWORD

The time . . . June 13, 1950.

The place . . . the Third Presbyterian Church, where we, the graduating class of 1950 are about to march down the aisle to receive our diplomas. We are feeling a little bit sad, a little bit nervous, and more than a little bit proud. We are proud of ourselves for having successfully completed our high school years. We are proud of our classmates, girls with whom we have worked and played and formed friendships which will last for many years to come. We are proud, too, of our school, and all we are leaving behind us.

We are feeling grateful for the opportunities, great and small, offered to us such as the understanding advice and willing cooperation of the faculty in all our undertakings; the personal interest shown to us as individuals; and the various activities which have enlarged our horizons. Perhaps the most important of all has been the broad academic background we have received which is so vital to our success in college work.

These advantages and many others have furnished us with a deep sense of security and assurance in what lies before us. We are, therefore, not timid in facing the future; rather, we are excitedly anticipating it, confident in our preparation. We shall always remember Ellis with affection and appreciation; and, though we are sad at leaving, we are not regretting a chance to prove ourselves worthy of being called Ellis graduates.

We hear the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance."

We are marching forward.

ELLIS, HEAR US

Ellis, hear us, for we bring to thee,
Our deep devotion as we sing to thee;
Steadfast and loyal thou would have us live
And for all we learn of thee, our thanks we give.
Ellis, hear us, as we raise our song
To happy school days and to friendships strong;
Keep ever burning bright the flame of truth,
May the years redeem the promise of our youth.

Senior Prophecy

"This is station C. D. Ballgame,—40 on your dial, bringing to you highlights of the sports world.

"Well, folks, it certainly is a beautiful fall day, and there sure is a lot of excitement in the air here at Forbes Field. Yes, sir, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators are preparing to fight to the finish at the 1980 World Series game; and it certainly is a great pleasure for me, your old friend, "Sunny Liz Helm," to bring to you a throw by throw account of the game, with little bits of this and that as to what's going on in the crowd. Spectators are filing to their seats now. Down in section A we see "Lucky Kings" box, occupied by his wife, the glamorous divorcee, the former Helen Collier. Through the cloud of smoke I can barely make out who is sitting beside her. Ah, yes, folks, her guest seems to be the famous composer, Eleanore Large, who has just won universal acclaim for her A Minor Concerto in C major. I can't quite see what is happening down along the third base line among the Washington fans, but there's great confusion. Now I see; everyone is turning to watch the entrance of Miss Pat "Perle Mesta" Crabtree, the Washington socialite hostess. As I see her now, she is laughing with her companion, Jane Garrison, the first U. S. ambassador to Brooklyn. The place is really beginning to fill up. Here comes Carol Fiske, the wife of General -----, mobbed by her six little boys in sailor suits. You know, these children have been the subject of much discussion as they were the first sextuplets ever born.

"The game is about to begin, and during the short lull I'd like to say that this broadcast is coming to you through the courtesy of the "Margot School of Charm and Beauty." "Slim" McCormick guarantees to roll the pounds off without pills, diets, or massage! Her method: Tapeworm.

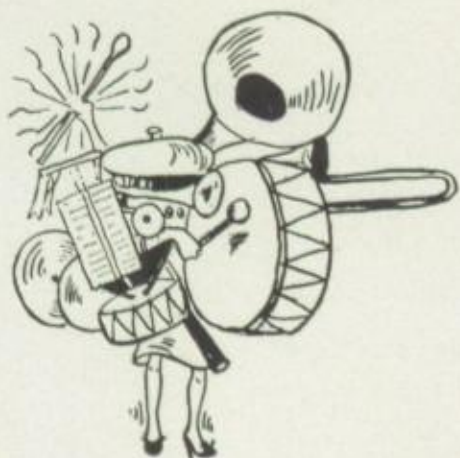

"Wait a minute, word has just come that Miss Bartley has rocketed into the stadium wall, crinkling her bright, shiny '48 convertible. Fortunately, she was not hurt and her only comment was, "You needn't park it James." There's only a few minutes left now, so I'll just briefly review the celebrities here. Susan Reed has slid down the North Pole, where she is photographing the new ice age. Carley Jo Leonard, famous mountain climber, has just returned from climbing Pike's Peak, having got her experience on Negley Hill. I see over here, Poloing Polly up from Polovia, still dressed in boots and saddle. Shouts of "down in front" are echoing from a box in the balcony where we see Catherine Engelder, first woman editor of "Esquire."

"Hear that ovation for Ralph Kiner as he hobbles to the field, supported by his attractive wife, Lucia Long. He takes a bow and now the players are taking their places.

"O

Senior Prophecy

"Ladies and gentlemen, we will now hear the Star Spangled Banner sung by trilling Dorothy Hohmann of the Met.

"On the mound, baseball's first woman pitcher and the Pirates' pride and joy, Liz Crout, her foot on the rubber, takes the stretch and delivers—strike one! Oh, what a game, this promises to be!

"We have now reached the top half of the seventh and the score is 50-50. From right field stand comes the strong call of "Red hots, get your red hots here," as Louise Baur, Yale's most efficient waitress, gives us the privilege of her services for this game. There is a Russell in the air . . . It's Karyn up there in the blue, dragging behind her plane an advertisement for delicious food at Freeble's Feast House, featuring Charlotte McGinnis, red hot blues singer, and owned by Rubv Freeble, celebrated author of "Freeble's Feeble Fables On Feasting Fast." The last out and the players disperse. The crowd rises and we see Judy Hazlett, world renowned dancer slink to a temporary platform in the middle of the field to give her version of the "Seventh Inning Stretch." From the dugout, there's an odd-looking object approaching. What is it? It looks like a collection of instruments: cymbals, clarinet, trombone, drums and tuba. Why it's the versatile Mimi Rowland and leading this one-man band is Mary Jane Robinson. As they march around the field, Mimi strikes up a spirited rendition of "Pittsburgh, Beautiful Pittsburgh," aided greatly by Mary Jane's baton.

"We are now beginning the last half of the ninth, the score is tied. What a game this has been, it will make baseball history. Both teams have been in great shape and the tenseness now as the Pirates go up to bat for a final effort is appalling. The pitcher winds up; What's that? The pitcher has fallen, some sort of small, round ball has hit him. And there's a strange-looking figure in knickers and brandishing a golf club onto the field. Well, what do you know, it's Dotty Swan, contender for the American National Amateur Golf Title. She has just had a long drive during her Tournament in Schenley Park. The Washington pitcher is replaced and the substitute winds up and hurls a beauty over the plate. Crout is up at bat and connects, sending a powerful drive out over the right field line. It looks like, yes it is, a home-run. Well that means the Pirates win. No, wait, the Washington side has risen en masse. They claim the ball was foul, and the Pirates claim it's fair. This momentous controversy is referred to Umpire Fairlamb. Her decision means the game. Maybe we can pick up her words. Hold your hats, folks, here it is! Go ahead Umpire.

"Fair is foule and foule is fair,
Hover through the smog and filthy air."

MIMI ROWLAND	She ever gets a disorder.	To sit in on a teachers' meeting.	Owning a million dollar wardrobe.	Selling dresses.
KARYN RUSSELL	She ended up in study hall during French class.	To make a parachute jump.	Spending a million dollars.	In the poor house.
DOTTY SWAN	She had to take five.	Wouldn't you like to know?	A hole in one.	In a sand trap.

The Last Will and Testament

We, the members of the class of 1950, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament.

FIRST, we direct our executor to pay our just debts and funeral expenses.

SECOND, we, as individuals, make the following bequests:

Suzanne Bartley leaves her famous blue and gold bathing suit to Miss Land to use to its best advantage.

Louise Baur leaves her seat on the 73 street car to Anne Tucker.

Helen Collier leaves a bottle of peroxide to Susie Foster.

Pat Crabtree leaves her little green hat to Anne Tucker.

Liz Crout leaves her amorous nature to Nancy McKay in hopes that she won't use it!

Catherine Engelder leaves her dropped stitches to Miss Stevenson.

Carol Fiske leaves a subscription to the Post-Gazette for one year to Barbara Vaux.

Ruby Freeble leaves a can of rattlesnake soup to biology class.

Jane Garrison leaves her vitamin B complex to Sisty Blair.

Judy Hazlett leaves her smoke rings to Ginny Byerly.

Elizabeth Helm leaves her Princeton University book covers to Bunny Beeson.

Dorothy Hohmann leaves "Agnus Dei" to Marilyn Crawford.

Polly Jacob leaves her handwriting to anyone who wants it.

Eleanor Large leaves Frankenstein to Marnie Becker.

Carley Jo Leonard leaves the Ellis Fair kitty as a mascot for the school.

Lucia Long leaves her awkward load of books to Louise Mulert.

Margot McCormick leaves her ability to advise the lovelorn to Claire Fredette.

Charlotte McGinnis leaves a pack of cigarettes to Betty Seibert to bring to school on Friday.

Susan Reed leaves her pink-eye to the whole school.

Mary Jane Robinson leaves her alarm clock to Sisty Blair so she can get to school on time.

Mimi Rowland leaves the lost chord, that she found, to Miss Fell.

Karyn Russell leaves her ride to school to anyone who likes a hospital.

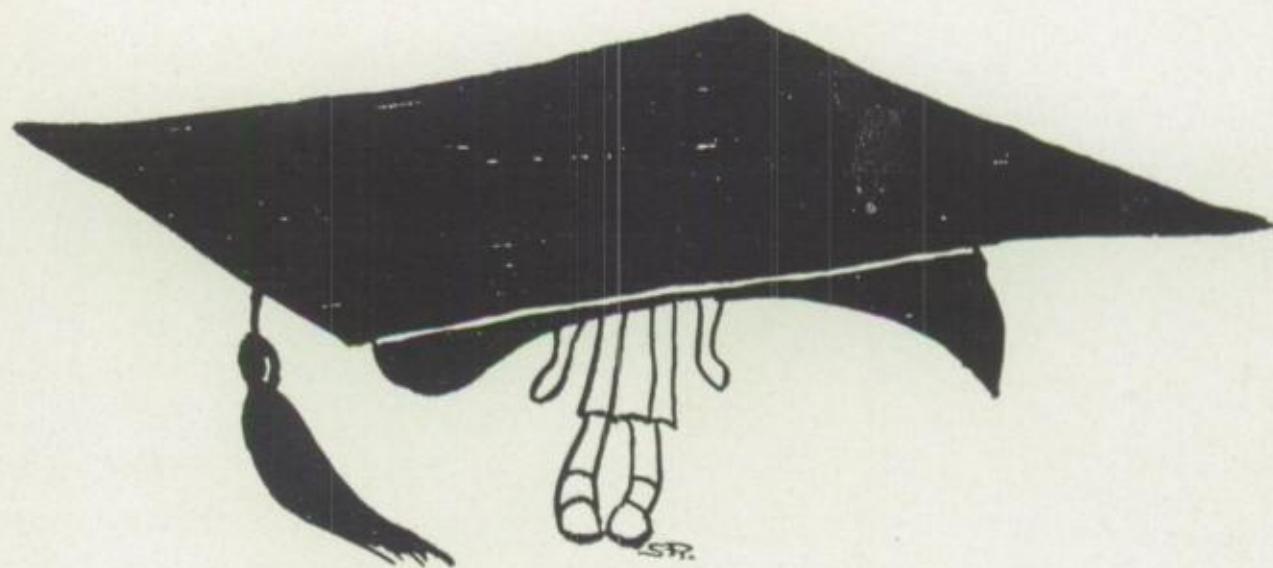

Dotty Swan leaves her irrelevant questions to Mrs. Zirkle.

THIRD, we bequeath our ashes to our sister class to be sprinkled on the icy basketball court.

LASTLY, we hereby nominate, constitute and appoint Miss Fairlamb to be Executor of this, our will. We authorize and empower our said Executor to use full authority over the incoming senior class.

Juniors

Time: Much too early on Monday morning.

Place: Green study hall.

Scene: Several girls are talking animatedly about week-end happenings.

Miss Benson, our class advisor, tries to restore order.

The setting just pictured is that of one of the most important times of the day at Ellis: the period of discussion before opening exercises. We see a bedraggled figure enter the room. It is Clara Blair, well-known for her last minute appearances. Now we have our little group all assembled—that is—all except Susie Egan, Claire Fredette, Ginny Byerly, and Carolyn Horney. It's Judge Egan's time to drive, and his motto is "Better safe than sorry." Here they come, and we are all together now. So called order has finally been restored, thanks to Miss Benson. Now we can begin our discussion on the date for the annual Junior Prom; on important reforms such as the color of buttons we can wear on our uniforms; or on the big plans we have made for the school year. But come what may, we'll do our best to live up to the name of upperclassmen.

(Row 2) J. Stahl, L. Rushton, C. Tyson, L. Mulert, M. Copeland, S. Kyle, B. Byerly
 (Row 1) S. Foster, B. Vaux, L. Fleger, G. Ganter
 (absent) N. Dorbritz, M. Warden, N. McKay

Sophomores

Monday morning!! The first bell has just rung, and most of the class is now seated in Mrs. Austin's room. Margot Copeland is already relating her newest dream to Mary Louise Warden and Suzie Foster, who are now in hysterics. In the opposite corner of the room, Gretchen Gantner and Linda Rushton are doing some last minute studying, while Barbara Vaux is trying to explain the meaning of a new word to them. At this moment everyone is interrupted as Louise Fleger dashes in to tell us who she saw in the buses. After she has finished, Norina Dorbritz and Susan Kyle discover some very unusual articles in Nancy McKay's blazer pocket. Louise Mulert rushes in just before the second bell but in time to give Becky Byerly the new address of Camilla Tyson. While all this has been going on, Johne Stahl has been trying to explain to Mrs. Austin that only two bells have rung. Just at the moment the third bell rings and the Sophomore Class departs for another day of school.

(Row 3) S. Love, E. Rodgers, S. Hughes, R. McSorley, H. Bartley

(Row 2) S. Cohen, M. Crawford, D. Beeson, A. Harper, J. Ewing

(Row 1) M. Bell, M. McCargo, A. Copeland, R. Lawrence, N. Horne, A. Kyle

Freshmen

The Freshmen Class, as usual, files into Mrs. Zirkle's Biology lab for their Wednesday class meeting. The room quiets down to a dull roar as the president, Margot Bell, stands up, blushing, to bring order. Anne Kyle's notebook falls to the floor with assistance from Sally Love and Roberta McSorley, as Anne rises to read the minutes of the former meeting. We hear a morbid sigh from Nancy Horne, as Bunny Beeson blurts out the same old treasurer's report, "We're broke." A loud uproar is heard from the other end of the room as Ann Harper and Jane Ewing discover a tapeworm (in a jar, of course)! After that excitement has ceased, we see a flurry of paper flying across the table as Shirley Smith and Silvia Cohen stand Susan Hughes and Margo McCargo in a game of what seems to be table tennis, with Elsa Rodgers refereeing. Our brilliant vice-president, Ann Copeland, drenches Mrs. Zirkle's newly acquired tradescatia with Parker's Quick Drying Ink while explaining the sixth math problem to the bewildered Honey Bartley. Up to now absorbed in her unfinished Latin, Marilyn Crawford seizes the chance to get her name read in the minutes next week and moves the meeting adjourn. The class makes a beeline for the door —recess!

(Row 4) M. Becker, J. Allen, B. Chase, J. Cohen, M. Clifford
 (Row 3) J. McKelvy, S. Butler, J. Bergman, M. Howard, B. Mullen
 (Row 2) E. Beeson, B. Scheetz, A. Woolfolk, J. Lewis, J. Armentrout
 (Row 1) D. King, C. Kumer, M. Blair, A. Reynolds, P. Nash

Eighth Graders

I had almost finished with those eighth grade exam papers, and I was so sleepy I thought perhaps I would listen to the radio for a while. The news was to be followed by the quiz program I liked so well. As I settled down to wait for it, I seemed to hear a voice announcing that Mary Blair, the diving expert; Betsy Beeson, the track star; and Carol Kumer, riding Jean Armentrout's Derby winner were going to appear in a sports show in New York where last week Jane McKelvy's dogs won the championship. It is said that Barbara Chase, Marnie Becker, and Diane King, well known socialites would be present. Mimi Howard, a member of the president's cabinet and the famous lawyer, Barbara Scheetz, will fly on from Washington for the event. Among the hostesses for the gala affair will be Judy Allen, Marion Clifford, Julie Lewis, and Jettie Bergman, supervised by Ann Reynolds, the recognized authority on etiquette. Ann Woolfolk, Sandra Butler, and Barbara Mullen, will be among the celebrities from Pittsburgh. Judy Cohen will welcome guests with one of her clever monologues. The voice seemed to fade away and I realized that I had been dreaming about the eighth grade class of 1950.

AROUND THE CLOCK

"Step down!"

Such pleasant anticipation!

"Hi, Ho, It's off to work we go."

Wandering mind trouble!

Our future America!

Turn over a new leaf!

Facts and figures, put 'em down!

Seven, come eleven!

Oh-h, I can do that too!

Yo-Yoing, our main sport.

Puss 'n Boots.

"tink pleasant!"

A bevy of beautiful women.

"Brush up your Shakespeare"

You be frank and I'll be earnest!"

Next—the explosion!

It's a cinch, really nothing at all!

I smell a rat!

Hawaii—what a place to live!

Typical!

Ah, ha, gorging again!

"Now on the moors of Scotland . . ."

"Young ladies of Ellis!"

"Hurt her . . uh . . dignity?"

Trumped your own ace!

"A stitch in time saves . . ."

Camera, lights . . . trouble!

Who's the next victim?

Detention—that's what you get, you angel!

Glee Club at the Christmas Pageant.

The Christmas Pageant

"Swan, what is your trouble?"

Fascinating rhythm

The "take ten" class!

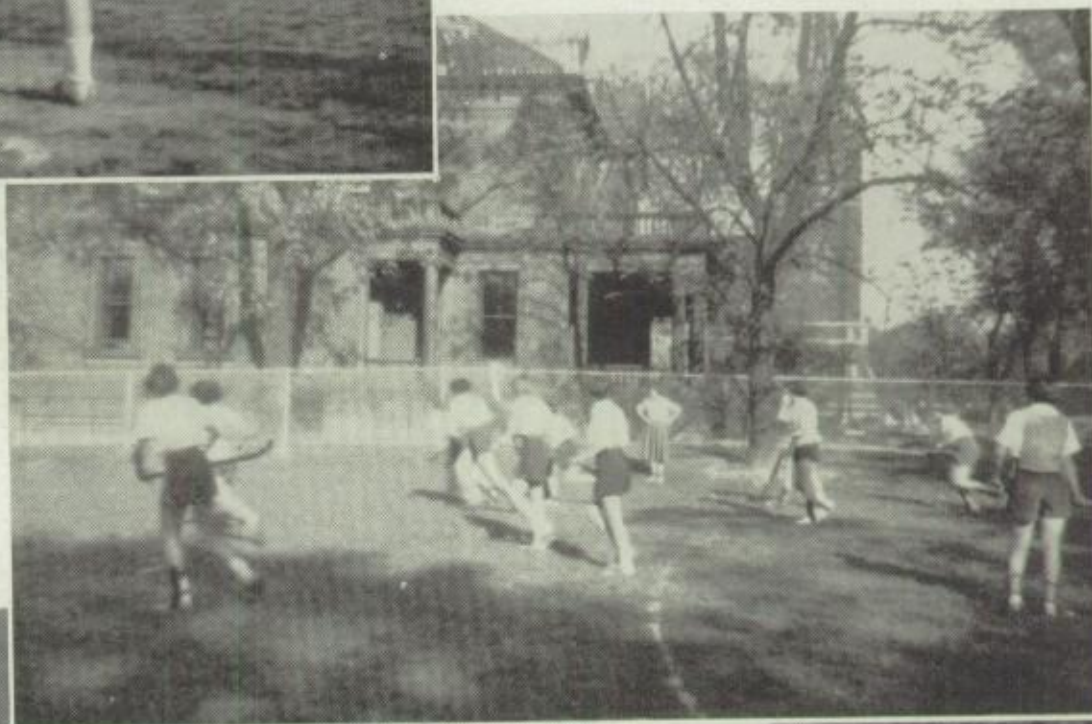

Show 'em how to fight!

Wow, such form!

The patter of tiny feet.

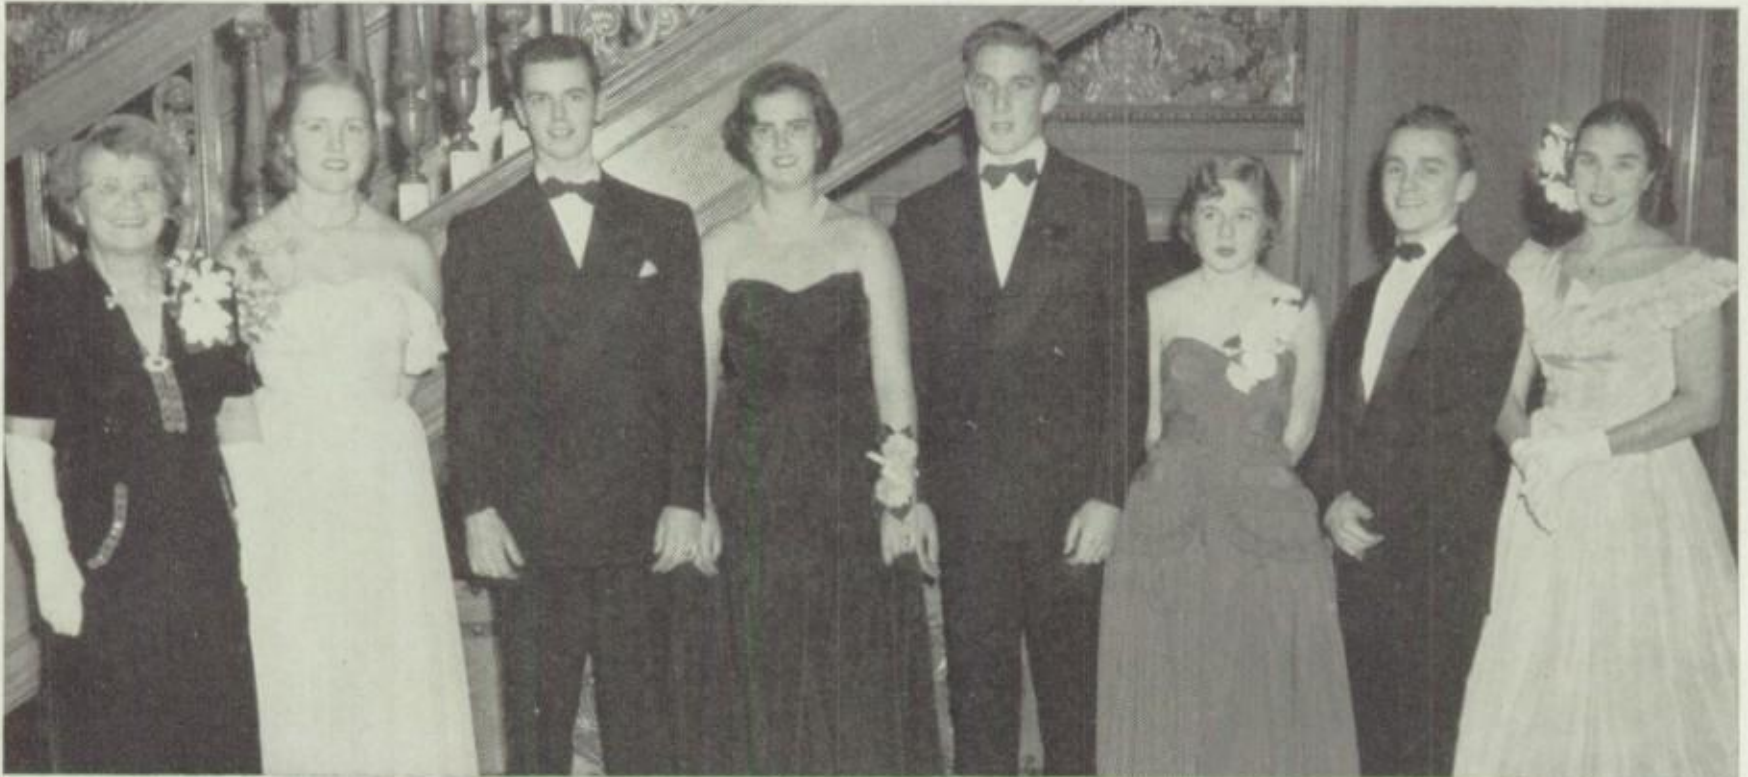

Show me the way to go home!

Phew! what a relief.
